Ali Abdul Razzaq Marafie gave an introduction to the objectives and tasks of the Qatar National Commission for Education, Culture and Science, which was established on Feb. 25, 1962, to contribute to achieving the goals of international organizations in line with the goals of education in the State of Qatar and its objectives through implementing many programs, projects and activities in various fields, in cooperation and coordination with national, regional and international partners to promote citizenship, human rights, justice, and human dignity.

He added that the commission seeks to make the membership of the State of Qatar in international, regional, and Arab organizations a successful investment that benefits all aspects of educational, scientific, and cultural activity in the country and contribution to the national development process in accordance with the Qatar National Vision 2030.

He explained that the commission provides support to the competent agencies in the country to meet the needs of the ministries and institutions concerned in the country regarding the activities and programs of organizations related to education, culture, and science.

Artist Fahd Al-Maadeed..
Creativity in the open air

The artist Fahd Al-Maadeed found a space to highlight his artistic talent near the main corridor at Darb Al-Saai, so he painted with his brush bright drawings that reflects an aspect of the innate Qatari environment.

A drawing of the well-known Qatari horse “Marwan Al Shaqab” appeared with its inherited beauty, but the artist Al-Maadeed was not satisfied with the real colors of the horse, but rather painted two other horses in green and blue, saying that he wanted to provoke the public with these two colors and present something different. Fahd Al-Maadeed was not enough with drawing the horses, but added to its side a drawing of the Samar tree with its branches that spread joy, as well as a drawing of the Qatari kindergarten in which the Sidra tree is in addition to a water stream in a depiction of the most beautiful months of the year and the Qatari spring, especially in the northern regions of the country.

Regarding the most prominent thing that attracted the audience of Darb Al-Saai to the drawings, Fahd Al-Maadeed said: His drawing directly in front of the audience had great impression on the audience, especially from the children, and therefore the audience eagerly followed the completion of the artistic paintings that will remain in front of the visitors of Darb Al-Saai in his new and permanent location.

“Qatar Reads”... Enhances humanitarian values through stories reading

In the corner of the “Qatar Reads” initiative within the activities of Darb Al-Saai, on which children’s books are distributed. Children of different ages gather around the writer and storyteller Hala Abu-Assad, who specializes in children’s literature entitled “Grandfather Adel forgot the way home”, which tells the story of Engy with her sick grandfather, who suffers from Alzheimer’s, which causes him to forget the way to his home.

Telling the story in an interactive way by the writer Hala, she made the children try to draw lessons from the story in order to answer her questions. From Angie’s help to her grandfather, the child Rose concluded that children should help old people in everything. As for Lina, she saw that Angie has patience, helpful, respect for others, and this is what all children should have.

A musical evening about the love of the country at Darb Al-Saai Theatre

In a magical musical evening at Nagham Theatre in Darb Al-Saai, singers Yusra and Anwar, along with artist Hashem Al-Yafei, performed many songs that visitors and guests of Darb Al-Saai interacted with as part of the Qatar National Day celebrations.

The three singers performed many patriotic songs, which made the night of the concert one of the most beautiful nights of Darb Al-Saai, rather the nights of Doha, which hosts thousands of visitors who went to attend the World Cup, where the visitors expressed their admiration for the evening.

The concert attendees confirmed that the song evening added a lot of joy to the activities of Darb Al-Saai, and some of the songs reflected the culture and heritage of Qatar and its national identity, which gave it an important cultural dimension, in addition to the musical songs that entertained the guests and the audience.
